Re: Iraq for Sale

Dear Mr. Greenwald and Ms. Spain:

We represent CACI International Inc and CACIPT, Inc. (collectively "CACI"). This letter is in response to the trailer for Brave New Films' Iraq for Sale. That trailer features a tank bearing what appears to be the CACI logo, a logo that is subject to federal trademark protection. Your use of CACI's trademark is not authorized by CACI. Indeed, your use of that trademark is a willful and deceptive misuse of CACI's valuable trademark. Such unauthorized and deceptive use of the CACI trademark constitutes trademark infringement and false advertising in violation of the United States Trademark Act of 1946, 15 USC § 1051, et seq. and related state laws. So stop using it immediately.

The trailer is also troubling because it references CACI in the context of force protection. That is, the trailer communicates the message that civilian contractors were put in harms way without adequate precautions and protections. That was most certainly not the case with CACI employees, and any suggestion to the contrary is quite simply defamatory. Brave New Films should cease and desist from featuring CACI in that false light.

Sincerely,

J. William Koegel, Jr.
